

TOP TWENTY WAYS

to engage your high school & collegiate members!

Ask chapters and clubs to create a table top display of their yearly activities and accomplishments. Set tables up around the meeting room for guests to enjoy as they arrive.

Recognize FFA advisors, Collegiate advisors, and 4-H leaders and provide a thank you gift.

Sponsor a one-year membership for all FFA State Degree Recipients in your county.

Schedule time in your program for a High School & Collegiate report given by the students.

Honor your county's Youth Discussion Meet participants.

Allow youth who have attended various MFB events (MFB Career Conference, Discussion Meet, Exploration Days, etc.) to share about their experiences.

Provide special recognition to Collegiate Farm Bureau members who graduated this past spring.

Have them collect ballots and assist with counting votes.

Assign collegiate members to read the county resolutions.

Put their hands to work by serving the meal or busing tables.

Assign students to lead the Pledge of Allegiance.

Donate supplies and ask your FFA Floral Design teams to create the table center pieces.

Ask Collegiate Farm Bureau Advisors to provide a five-minute snapshot of their program.

Offer a sponsored lunch meeting for the chapter or club with the most representation in attendance. You could include adults in your number as alumni!

Seat them at the registration table to assist with name tags.

If one of your FFA chapters had a state winning team, invite them to perform their presentation.

Purchase gift certificates from 4-H club or FFA chapters who offer annual chicken sales, fruit & nuts fundraisers, or plant sales and use them as your door prizes.

Students can draw door prize tickets and hand out prizes.

Spotlight county Farm Bureau scholarship winners.

Personally invite students and their parents to attend the meeting as guests.
